Karma & Diamonds

Book 1 - Moon Child

"One woman's journey from early trauma as a child in India to discovering the incredible power that lies inside us all."

The young Smita lives with her family in Porbandar, Gandhi's coastal town in North West India. At the age of seven, a sudden shocking upheaval alters her view of life forever. This is just one of many traumatic events in her childhood. During these moments of crisis, she discovers a deep, mystical connection with the higher realms through her inner Self, which she calls her 'Inner Diamond'. She finds she has a natural ability to tap into the ancient wisdom of the Indian gurus purely by intuition.

When she is ten, her family moves to the UK. There, she grows into an enthusiastic adolescent but is quickly confronted with the challenge of trying to balance two very different cultures of modern-day London and a traditional Indian culture that has very specific plans for her. She struggles to find her place in the world, both physically and spiritually. Things culminate into a major crisis and she finds herself isolated.

© Smita Joshi 2015 All rights reserved.

Later, after college, there's the premature prospect of being married off quickly to a nice young man in India. She realises that this is not her destiny. She needs all her courage to try and make life work as an independent young woman. She learns the hard way and makes mistakes along the way during the start of her career, but eventually she pulls through and builds a life for herself, even managing to buy a flat at a young age.

She wonders why her life is such a constant struggle with no real prospect for inner peace and love, as she keeps on battling old traumas that have a tight grip on her, and that block her from getting close to others. The Inner Diamond shows her that she can only be free, fulfilled, and experience true love, if she can let go of the karma of past lives, of which she has seen glimpses through her young life. This inner wisdom tells her to leave everything behind and go on a quest to India. Trusting her inner Self because it has guided her well so far, she quits her job, rents out her flat, and leaves for India with no clue of where to go or what to do.

© Smita Joshi 2015 All rights reserved.

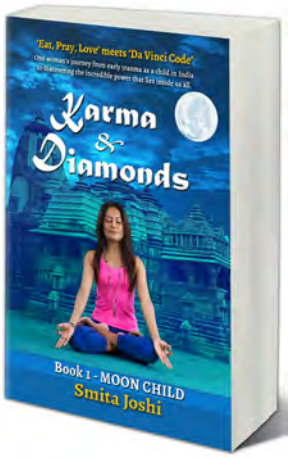

Living Life Free From the Stories of Your Life

Karma & Diamonds

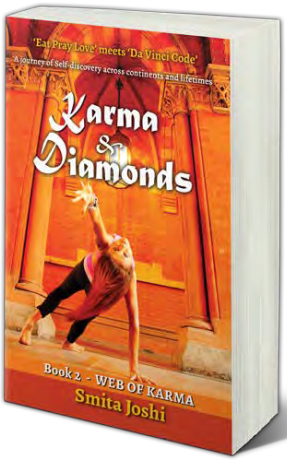

Trilogy

By Smita Joshi

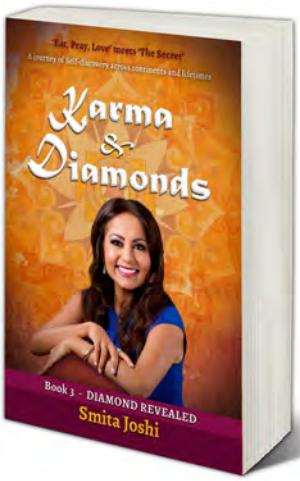

"Eat Pray Love" meets "Da Vinci Code"

Book 1
Moon Child

Book 2
Web of Karma

Diamond Revealed

www.karma-and-diamonds.com

© Smita Joshi 2015 All rights reserved.